Foreword

It has been with the greatest devotion that we have gathered together this record which marks another year's history of our Alma Mater.

We have endeavored to make in it an edition of interest not only to the graduates of 1926, but as well, to every member of the Buffalo State Normal School

Harriet George Cooke
Editor-in-Chief

Dr. Susan Frances Chase

Miss Ermina S. Smith

Who, through their noble ideals and ripe scholarship, through their sympathetic guidance of the students and their long years of loyal service to Alma Mater, have inspired a deeper pride and enthusiasm in our profession, this volume of The Elms is affectionately dedicated.

Susan Frances Chase, B.L., M.A., Ph.D.

Ermina S. Smith

To Our Principal
Harry Westcott Rockwell
B. A., M. A., Ph. D.

The Class of 1926 gratefully acknowledges its sincere appreciation of his enthusiastic leadership and sympathetic co-operation.

Class Song

List' to our song,
We sing the praise of Buff'lo Normal,
Tow'r of light we love;
Oh happy hours we've spent with thee,
Dear Alma Mater.
We'll honor her above the rest,
With might and main,
We'll spread her fame,
For we love Buff'lo Normal best.

Fast flows the tide,
The brook at last must reach the ocean;
Though our ways divide,
Our thoughts shall ever be with thee,
Dear Alma Mater.
Oh, harken to our farewell cry,
Where'er we be,
Thy memory
From out our hearts shall never die.

General Normal History

When in the course of youth's education, it becomes necessary for him to separate himself from his favorite haunts and journey forth to a seat of higher learning, he chooses that one which will give him the best opportunity to live and to serve. Accordingly, we the Seniors of the General Normal Department, chose Buffalo State Normal as our Alma Mater. And, as we have worked and played together in this our school, we have come to see that our choice was indeed a wise one. Wherever we go or whatever we do, we shall always carry with us the memories of the friendly and sympathetic atmosphere of the school.

General Normal History (Continued)

September 1923, saw us all a band of freshmen. Green? Well perhaps. But we at least had the redeeming feature of being Buffalo State Normal Freshmen. Many and various were our mistakes. "Living and learning" came to be our motto. Not all time was spent in dull labor. Parties, picnics, suppers, dances, oh, I cannot name them all. What happy, joyous times they were. June came. After making the finest showing a freshman class ever made in the Junior Tournament, we departed for our various places of dwelling for the summer.

What a wonderful day it was when we returned in September '24. To see all the old friends again, to talk over the summer's conquests and incidentally to register for our new work, was the program for the day. In a few days, we were again diligently at work, each fitting into his place as easily as if he had been pre-ordained for it. We now bore the majestic titles of Grammar, Intermediate and Kindergarten-Primary. The days and weeks slipped rapidly past. It is useless to tell of the grand events, for each bears in his heart the memory of one that is particularly dear to him. And so we came again to the end of a successful year.

Seniors! Now we walked sedately and steadfastly on Duty's pathway. Ever we held before us the honor that was to be ours in June and the sadness of parting with friends. Can we ever forget these days? No. If they have not been our happiest, if they have not been the most fruitful, if they have not been our best; they have been the guide posts which will lead us to a happier, more fruitful and more worthwhile life.

So, we the Seniors of Grammar, Intermediate and Kindergarten-Primary, extend to the friends we leave behind, the best wishes—and to you, Alma Mater, we raise a cheer which shall never cease to ring!

Song of Praise

Adapted from Rudolph Friml's "Song of the Vagabonds".

Oh hear, and loudly your voices raise,
And sing a song as you onward go—
A song as you onward go.
Oh cheer, and join in a song of praise,
And keep her safe from every blow—

Keep safe from every blow—
There's no doubt,
As every student soon finds out,
They must shout
For Buffalo.

CHORUS

Gleaming bright before us, Alma Mater, glorious
Normal School of Buffalo.
Hear our voices ringing, Thy fond praises singing,
Normal School of Buffalo.
Onward, forward, lift our banners high,
Forward, upward, 'till they reach the sky.
On with high endeavor, We will retreat never—
Give a cheer for Buffalo.

OUR "GENERALS" BE:

History of the Two-Year Industrial Men

In September, 1924, there entered into the lower halls of Normal, a group of twenty-seven young men from various cities and villages of this section of the State to gain a higher education. For the first few months they felt it their duty to make themselves acquainted with the ways of the school.

As they became assimilated into the student body the feeling of duty changed from lesson assignments to school activities. Gradually they became members of the Glee Club, Orchestra, Record Staff, Dramatic Club, Men's Club, Basketball teams and of Fraternities.

At the beginning of the second semester they were joined in their classes by five new members who will graduate in January 1927. The men continued in their activities creating many new friendships until the end of the school year.

Upon returning in September they found that one of their men was missing—Janowski had deserted the teaching profession for the ministry. The semester was filled with many activities among these the visiting of nearby industrial plants.

During the second semester practice teaching occupied much of their time and attention. Their own activities gave way, to a large extent, to those of the entire Senior Class. Perhaps one of their greatest undertakings during this last semester was the trip to Rochester to visit the Junior High Schools and Pre-Vocational classes of that city.

The men feel that they have gained much from the school and a few are returning for further work next year, so that they may gain credit for a degree.

Vocational Industrial

Each year the State of New York awards twenty-five scholarships at Buffalo State Normal School to men and women, citizens of New York State, to qualify them to teach trade subjects in the public schools of the state. These scholarships amount to one thousand dollars. The qualifications require at least five years of trade experience of journeyman grade and a general education of at least two years of high school work.

In the scholarship class of 1926 every section of the state is represented. Twenty-two of the men and women who received the awards accepted them and have been in attendance at Buffalo State Normal School since last September. Three men, who did not receive scholarships, are taking the course.

Several of our members have been active in the work of the Glee Club and the Orchestra. Histrionic ability of a high order was discovered in two of our members, when they portrayed important parts in "She Stoops to Conquer." A basket-ball team which met several other class teams was formed.

All the activities of the Buffalo Normal have been literally backed by this group and not to be outdone by other groups, its members have had a number of theatre and bowling parties.

History of the H. E. Seniors

We were not always thus! Four years ago, had you strolled through the corridors of the third floor you might have found scores of timid souls lined up before the Home-making office. Had you entered the office with one of these shy, about-to-be-Freshmen, your compassion would have known no bounds.

Only fifty of us might enter the "Promised Land" and—we were seventy-five in number.

So there came a day after much interviewing when we were told that we were to be given a Psychological Examination. Our hearts ceased to move, our wits were numb. We didn't even know how to spell "Psychological" and many a dusty dictionary was fingerprinted that night. Then came Friday of that awful week and a list of fifty lucky ones was read to the quaking audience—and we were among them. Thus began our first attempt at Normal.

Monday morning prompt at nine o'clock found us huddled together with brand-new note books and fountain pens to attend our first class. Bewildered, homesick and panic stricken we listened to Dr. Auchampaugh pour forth the glorious events of History with a rapidity that defied Niagara Falls. Was Normal to be like this?

Then came days and weeks of new friendships and experiences, parties, new organizations, and new classes. In great glee we tried on our spic and span Foods Uniforms and Chemistry Coats. In the dull greyness of morning we took our turns in serving and preparing breakfast and dinners at the practice house. How the dishes rattled in trembling hands, how hard it was to swallow down that meal! The coffee was muddy, or the cereal scorched and heavens! what an omelet! Finally June came and with printed Project Sheets in hand we proudly but falteringly went home to do our first Home Project.

With our Sophomore year came still newer experiences and interwoven with them a greater faith and less timidity. We had come into our own at last. But had we? Many a day we puzzled over the problem, while washing windows at the Practice House or perhaps the attic steps or perhaps it was the kitchen floor. Then there were still more luncheons to serve, dresses to be made, hats to be trimmed. In great glee we delved into Household Physics and invented many a device that was never patented.

Once we held sway at an Assembly Program and the more graceful members danced a minuet (as their contribution). Even Easter Vacations were filled with Calorie Projects and many an adding machine was prayed for.

And so we grew to be Juniors, but smaller in number than we had been as Freshman. Proudly we signed up for our "Major" and "selected" Electives. "Selected"?—No, we took whatsoever could be fitted in our already full program. We wondered when we would sleep! Dishes piled up in hundreds were diminished as the hours passed by and still the Glee Club and the Orchestra and the fifty-seven varieties of Sections continued to make merry at our expense. "Special" occasions—each with a personality all its own, came our way.

Summer came bringing with it commercial projects in Foods and Clothing. Many a Junior's arm was lame from writing up accounts and many a knife grew dull from peeling potatoes. (Our one regret is we never had time to tabulate the actual number of tasks accomplished and injuries suffered.)

Then came the grand and glorious feeling that comes with being a Senior. The Practice House was ours, we were lord of all we surveyed. We invaded the teaching centers, the Nutrition Centers. We sang the doctrine of "a quart of milk is a bottle of health". We struggled with courses as before but we were still washing dishes! But there is one consolation—the Freshmen are as scared as we had been!

So after four years, thirty-three in number, we go forth to be enlisted in the ranks of alumnae to enter many fields of service.

Nay—dear friends, we were not always thus. We are the outgrowth of environment.

Sing a Song of Seniors

Young and Hardy win the race,
Keen and Smart attain much grace
Sugar Cain and Cotten grow
Where the Summer breezes blow.

Brown and Black, Green and White
Make our class colors seem just right.
Barnum invites us to her show
But all the Smiths refuse to go.

When Winter time comes around
The Coleman's tune is a mournful sound.
Mason and Plummer we do employ,
And to our House they bring scant joy.

The Dove, the Griffin and the Ren,
Birds we have as well as men.
In Hol(brook) and (Kenne)brook our Fisher finds
Pike, Trout, Schaad—Oh, several kinds.

Through the Town though you may look,
You ne'er will find such a Sterling Cooke.
Our Baker, too, is a worthy man
He fills us up when e'er he can.

When Nature Study we aim to teach,
We trip to the Woods or perhaps to the Beach;
And if by chance a Wolff appear—
Our Setter guards us without fear,
No Hurt to us shall e'er descend
While we have such a faithful friend.

But if I do not cease to sing,
This rhyme will be but a jumbled thing;
And all my readers fail to see—
This class, the best that e'er can be!

Swimming

This year, for the first time, the men of our Normal School could boast of swimming as an addition to its athletic activities. Through the kind efforts of Miss Houston it was arranged to reserve Tuesday evenings at Hutchinson High School for this purpose. Under the careful guidance of Mr. Kalbfleish the swimming period became valuable exercise and pleasure to all who attended. Relays, waterpolo, and life saving were some of the attractive features of the meetings. Next year it is hoped to organize and perhaps challenge several of the high school teams.

Panhellenic Association

The Inter-Sorority Council which has governed the sororities of Buffalo State Normal School has this year given place to the Panhellenic Association. All sororities are now members of the Association of Educational Sororities, which makes it possible to welcome this association to our school. The Association is governed by three representatives, two upper classmen and one lower classman, from each sorority and a faculty member chosen by the group. Rushing rules and any inter-sorority difficulties are taken care of by this Association. During the past year, it has held a bridge party, a supper party and a "Sorority Sing". This Association has done much to foster cooperation among the sororities of Normal.

The Home Economics Club is composed of the Students of the Homemaking Department. The aim of the Club is to create a spirit of friendliness and understanding among the Students in the Club. It is the one organization to which all students in the Department may belong. At Christmas time, the Club filled baskets and stockings for the poor. The object of its meetings is to bring something of interest to the Homemaking Students. Each Class takes charge of a meeting as a contribution. It was under the direction of the Club that a recent Assembly program was presented.

DEBATING

Debating is one of the oldest of the arts, entitled to rank with poetry, music and other cultural subjects. There have always been two sides to every question and there have always been men to argue on one side or the other. There are questions of paramount interest to us today just as there were years ago. So, in the natural order of things we find youth anxious to settle the affairs of the world, organizing itself into discussion or debating societies.

In just this way the Normal School Debating Club grew. A desire for self help, a desire to study the questions of the day, a need for a definite way and place to discuss topics of vital interest—all these were directly responsible for the formation of the society.

At the beginning of this semester the Debating Club became a reality. A constitution was drawn up and adopted and officers were elected.

The society was indeed fortunate in securing Mr. Bennett for our Faculty Adviser. Mr. Bennett has had wide experience in this line and consequently has been able to render valuable assistance in many ways.

Thus far the subjects of the debates have been timely indeed and of national interest as the Chicago Drainage Canal, and of local interest too, such as the I. R. C. bus service.

An open forum was held on Co-education and Capital Punishment, which are of undoubted importance at this time.

While plans for next year are tentative as yet, it can safely be said that issues of vital interest will be brought before the school. It is the ambition of the Society next year to debate with other Normals and Colleges. The Debating Society is here to stay.

Central Council

Among the newest of Normals organizations stands what is known as the Central Council, a body of faculty and student members who cooperate to solve school problems.

This has not been created over night but has come as an outgrowth for the desire of better self-government. Today it is composed of representatives from the twenty-seven various sections and of ten faculty members.

To be sure this is a rather large and varied group, each member having decidedly different ideas, viewpoints and feelings. To offset this, however, the council provides for another group composed of a representative of each section, alternate and section captain, which takes care of petty matters within its section.

The constitution, as was adopted by the student body, provides for the following offices: chairman, sub-chairman and secretary. These offices have been very ably filled by Mr. Bradly, Marion Slaven and Amy Newman.

The Seniors Capital Song

Tune:—A Capital Ship.

Prelude—Ump da, Ump da, (All in unison).

I.

A remarkable class, if we all can pass,
Are the Seniors of '26,
The faculty will all agree,
Although their conscience pricks.
Our accomplishments and common sense
Have never been surpa - a - assed
So we'll diminish your ranks to finish
Our Normal days at last.

Chorus:

So enlist your friends to come,
Our Normal days are done;
We'll stay no more till the stroke of four
Resounds in every - e - e ear.
We're off to experiment,
Wherever we are sent,
Our theories and philosophies—
For a thousand bucks a year.

II.

The Grammar Section will pass inspection,
And have won their laurels true,
They've wrestled with math and all that hath
Pursued them these years through.
Oh, many tussels they've had with muscles
In "Health" and Palmer Me - eth - thod,
And their cash was spent for liniment
A blessing to the wretched! Chorus.

III.

Most domesticated - ly educated
Are the Seniors of H. E.
No pains were spared and they're prepared
To explain the calorie;
Or how make fudge or a budget budge,
Or raise an in - fa - a - ant,
Or to find a way to make Vitamin A
Or renovate a lamp. Chorus.

IV.

If it's talent you ask from our Senior Class
Try the Kindergarten-Primary;
They'll build you a cart or a Noah's Ark
With a fine menagerie.
Or write a song just two lines long
For little folks to sin - in - ing,
Or tell a tale of Jonah's Whale
Or the quest of the Wishing Ring.

Chorus.

V.

Without intention, we did not mention
The so called stronger sex,
That can wire a house or cage a mouse
Or anything complex;
They excel in science and self-reliance,
Could erect a ten - e - ment,
But we're proud to say, while outnumbered, they
Have always been content.

Chorus.
M. A. S.

Where the Blue Begins

At the end of the quarter when Uncle Sam delivers the royal blue to Dad.

When the yellow butts into the cafeteria line.

When Saturday is Thursday.

When you have to eat your lunch on the Connecticut Belt.

When you are summoned to an "exclusive assembly" at 8.55.

When your lesson plan that you so carefully tucked into your portfolio before starting for school, sneaks out and stays at home.

When Donald Edward broadcasts at 3.30 A. M. from station YEL.

When the Connecticut Belt stalls at 8.43 and your Library book is due at 8.45.

When you are seen by an instructor the same day you cut his class.

When you lose your locker key and Mr. Smith has already left.

When an unexpected quiz is sprung and you see red.

When a green Freshie beats you in getting to the "cats" counter.

When you are the official goat.

When the day of the Prom approaches and HE has not yet asked you!

When you are not exempt in your best subject.

How to Find Your I. Q. and Mine

(This should be computed when Saturday is Friday).

Add all you know.

Divide by the number of mistakes made while practice teaching.

Subtract the number of times absent from chapel.

Multiply by the number of classes cut and add the number of blue warning slips.

From this result subtract the number of hours wasted in the corridor.

Add your favorite teacher's age (approximate).

Subtract the number of fish in the school (gold fish preferably).

If you are under 5 feet tall, multiply this result by the number of inches below 5 feet, and subtract the number of calories in the lunch which you did not have time to eat; multiply the remainder by 110;

If you are over 5 feet tall, reverse the process;

Give the locomotive cheer

Do Si Do

If you are still sane, the result should be your I. Q.

—the greatest thing in life!

¶ It is not wealth—nor health—it is contentment.

¶ And contentment dwells where there are rested nerves, kind thoughts, and softly spoken words.

¶ Contentment thrives in homes where things run smoothly—amid orderliness and repose.

¶ "It takes a heap o' livin' in a house to make it a home," but electricity hastens the magic transformation.

¶ When electricity enters drudgery departs. With its advent comes that leisure for living—and loving—once possessed by but a few.

AMPICO

An analysis of the claims made for various reproducing pianos demonstrates the Complete Supremacy of the Ampico to a degree which leaves no real basis for comparison. In every respect it is far superior to any and every other instrument made.

THE PIANO UNCHANGED FOR PLAYING BY HAND

The system of installation of the Ampico absolutely avoids any distortion of the case or alteration of the action of the piano so that it remains unimpaired and unchanged for playing by hand.

The Ampico invites comparison—any comparison you choose—under any conditions you impose—any time—anywhere and at your pleasure.

BUFFALO STATE NORMAL SCHOOL CLASS OF '26

—Staff Photo—"Ken."

Wearing their caps and gowns for the first time, the 301 seniors of the class of '26 of the Buffalo State Normal school attended the baccalaureate services Sunday afternoon in the auditorium of the institution. A large number of friends of the school were in attendance. Here are the officers of the class as they appeared at the ceremonies. Left to right: Helen Haskell, faculty-student council; Grace Muscarella, secretary; Gertrude Rodems, president; Genevieve O'Brien, vice president and Beulah Rixford, treasurer.
